

The Daily Gazetteer.

NUMB. 3229

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1744.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Moscow, August 20.

HE Ministry are, at present, engag'd in daily Conferences with the Danish Ambassador, in relation to the Affairs of Holstein; which, it is said, will be now entirely regulated in such a manner, as to prevent all Disputes for the future. Orders have been sent to General Keith, to hold the Forces under his Command ready to march; and, at the same time, Directions were given for making a Draught out of all the Regiments of Foot, in order to render the Corps under the Command of General Keith 12,000 Men; which, it is thought, will very soon begin to move towards Germany, in pursuance of the Engagements between this Court and that of London. According to our last Accounts from Siberia, the late Duke of Courland appears to be quite another Man; for since the Arrival of the Order from Court, which permits him to hunt, or take any other Diversion, within four Miles of his House, he has quite thrown off his former Melancholy, laid out a fine Garden, and is so well pleas'd with overlooking his Affairs, that he frequently assures the Officers who guard him, that he is much better satisfied with his present Condition, than with the high Fortune he formerly enjoy'd at the Court of Peterburgh.

Warsaw, September 2. We expect here, in a short time, Baron Wezel, in Quality of Minister from the Emperor; and it is believed, that the Count de St. Severin, Ambassador from his most Christian Majesty, will arrive in a Month. Count de Keyserling, Envoy Extraordinary from the Czarina, will soon set out for Frankfort, where he is to assume the Character of Ambassador from her Imperial Majesty of Russia, to his Imperial Majesty of the Romans. In the late Senatus Consilium, it was resolv'd to propose the following Points to be determined in the ensuing Dyst of Grodno; viz. 1. That it is proper to renew the Conferences with the Foreign Ministers; and, for that Purpose, to fill up the Places of the Commissaries that are deceas'd. 2. That Care ought to be taken to cultivate, more and more, a strict Friendship between this Crown and that of Russia; in order to which, it may be expedient for the Dyst to acknowledge the Sovereign of that Country's Title of Empress. 3. That the Envoy of the Khan of the Tartars be sent back, with Presents suitable to his Character; a Letter of Felicitation to his Master, on his Accession to that Dignity; and a Minister dispatched to his Court, on the Part of the Republick, as soon as may be. 4. That the Prussian Minister may be invited to settle the Demands, occasioned by the frequent marching of his Master's Forces thro' the Kingdom of Poland, conformable to the Treaty of Velau. 5. To consider, whither it will be advantageous to the Republick, to convene the Pospolite-Ruzzeny, or Dyst, on Horseback; considering how far the Sealon is advanc'd.

Stockholm, Sept. 8. His Excellency Mr. Guy Dickens, his Britannick Majesty's Minister at this Court, having presented a Memorial, in the Name of his Master, desiring that the March of the 6000 Hessians, for the Service of the Emperor, might be suspended, his Majesty was pleased to declare; That tho', upon all Occasions, he was extremely glad of any Opportunity of expressing his sincere Regard for the King of Great-Britain, yet it was impossible for him, in this Respect, to comply with what was expected from him; because he had left the Direction of all Affairs in Germany entirely to his Brother, Prince William of Hesse; to whom, therefore, his Majesty might address himself on this Subject. It is easy to discern the true Meaning of this Answer, which is, by no means, satisfactory in its Nature; and seems to have been given with no other View, than to prevent the Indecency of an absolute Denial, considering that those Troops had been so long in the Pay of the Crown of Great-Britain.

Madrid, August 31. We learn by an Express just arrived, that, in pursuance of his Majesty's Orders, the Crew of the nine Dutch Ships, taken with Provision and Ammunition on board, for the Fleet of Admiral Matthews, are treated with the utmost Tenderness and Civility at Cartagena. His Majesty was pleased to settle a Pension of eight Reals a Day, for Life, on the Courier who brought the News of his most Christian Majesty's Recovery; he had likewise large Presents made him by the Infanta, by the principal Ministers, and by most of the Nobility; so that he has made his Fortune by a single Journey. It is certain, that under Pretence of sending a Reinforcement of Troops to the Garrisons on the Coast of Barbary, a secret Expedition is carrying on, which the Court has greatly at Heart; some People fancy that it is intended for Italy; but the best Politicians seem to be satisfied, that it is against some of the British Dominions.

Rome, Sept. 5. At last we are let into the Secret of the true Design of the Austrian Embarkation, which has, at last, taken Place. It consists of about 4000 Men, which, instead of being designed for Naples, is actually intended for the Relief of the King of Sardinia; who is so pressed at present, that, without this Supply, it would be impossible for him to prevent his Capital being invested. The Count de Gages has so fortified his Camp, as to be in no further Apprehensions from the Germans; and has likewise received a considerable Reinforcement of Cavalry from Naples; so that, in all Probability, he will very soon be in a Condition to act on the Offensive; especially if it be true, that the Genoese will speedily declare in Favour of the Two Crowns.

Turin, August 29. The Army of the Allies being much superior in Horse, his Majesty has thought fit to re-pass the Po, in order to avoid a decisive Engagement before the Arrival of the Austrian Succours, which are in full March to join us. We are certain, by intercepted Letters, that the Court of Paris has thought fit to grant the Prince of Conti's Request, and to send him 15,000 Men, as soon as they can be spared, from the Rhine. It is not easy to discern what is the Enemy's Design with respect to Coni; but it is very certain, that they do not push the Siege with any Degree of Vigour. Some impute this to a Misunderstanding among their principal Generals; but we are rather inclined to believe, that it is occasioned by the Want of Ammunition, and by the Badness of the Roads, which will not allow their Convoys from Dauphiny to advance but very slowly.

Nuremberg, September 4. We have certain Intelligence from Bohemia, that Prague was actually invested on the 2d, and the Trenches opened before it on the 8th, with the Loss of 15 or 16 Men killed, and as many wounded. The Prussians expect to have their Batteries in Readiness to play by the 12th or 13th at farthest; and, according to all Appearance, the Siege cannot last above a Fortnight. On the 9th there was a very sharp Engagement near Beraun, between a large Body of Prussian Foot, under the Command of General Hacke, and a great Corps of Hungarian Horse, under General Bathiani; the Dispute lasted, with prodigious Warmth, for several Hours; during which, a Courier was sent to his Prussian Majesty's Camp, to demand Succours; upon which his Majesty advanced with 17,000 Men to the Succour of his Foot; upon which the Austrians, finding themselves borne down by Numbers, thought fit to retire, and leave the Prussians in Possession of the Field of Battle. His Highness Prince Charles of Lorrain is advancing, with the utmost Diligence, towards Bohemia, in Hopes of coming Time enough to prevent the Fate of Prague.

H O M E P O R T S.

Lancaster, September 11. We have this Day Advice, that the Happy, Birchall, and the India Queen, Nuns, both from Barbados for this Port, were put ashore at Laughswilly in Ireland, in a violent Storm of Wind, the 29th ult. The Indian Queen was pretty much damage'd both in Ship and Cargo, the Happy not much worse, but run up to High Water Mark.

This Day is Published,

(Price Sixpence)

A LETTER from an OFFICER in Prince CHARLES's Army; giving a true and particular Account of his Highness's repelling the Rhine.

To which is annex'd,

An exact Plan of his Army, in Order of Battle; with all his General Officers, as drawn up on the Plain of Roppenheim, after he had repelled that River.

Printed for M. Cooper, at the Globe in Pater-noster Row.

Now Printing and Publishing in Weekly Numbers, stich'd in Blue Paper, Four Sheets, that is Sixey-four Pages, for Sixpence;

And this Day is Published N U M B E R I V.

A N authentick Journal of the late Expedition under the Command of Commodore Anson, containing a regular and exact Account of the whole Proceedings, and several Transactions of that Expedition, particularly at Madeira, St. Catherine's, St. Julian's, and Juan Fernandez; their Manner of hunting and living there upon Sea Lions, Sea Dogs, &c. the taking and plundering of Payta, with only three Boats, their cruizing on the Coast of Acapulco, with a Relation of the Extreme Necessities they were there driven to; being forced for twelve Days to drink Turtles Blood for want of Water; their Arrival at Chequatan Bay, Teniar, and Macao; the taking of the rich Spanish Galleon, called the Neutro Signora de Cabodonga, from Acapulco, bound to Manilla, commanded by Don Gerónimo Montero, a Portuguese; their going to Canton in China; and other remarkable Particulars, too tedious here to mention. To the whole will be added, a Narrative of the Extraordinary Hardships suffered by the Adventurers in this Voyage.

By J O N H P H I L I P S, Midshipman of the Centurion.

Printed for J. Robinson, at the Golden Lion in Ludgate-street; and may be had of the News Carriers.

Note, This Journal will be compriz'd in seven or eight Numbers, printed on a good Paper and new Letter; if it exceeds this, the Overplus will be given gratis.

It has been acknowledged to be an authentick Account by an Officer of the Centurion, who has perused it; whereas the Publick has been most impudently impo'd on by other Things pretending to be such, which are either very imperfect Narratives, or notorious Pirates. For instance, one Thing pretending to be a Journal of this Expedition, is taken from the Narrative of the Loss of the Ship Wager, published above a Year ago; and to be had correctly printed and bound, of J. Robinson in Ludgate street, for 2 l. 6 d. And another Thing coming out is our Journal wretchedly pirated.

This Day is Published,
